Patricia Chandler honored

Patricia Anne Chandler

The United States Achievement Academy announced today that Patricia Anne Chandler has been named a 1982 United States National Award winner in Business Education.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes less than five percent of all American high school students.

Patricia, who attends Appomattox County High School was nominated for this National award by Mrs. Ann Cook, a Business Education teacher at the school.

Patricia will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official yearbook, published nationally.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors and upon the Standards for Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest, and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Patricia is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Ellen Chandler of Appomattox. The grandparents are Mrs. Kathryn Ramsey of Appomattox and Mrs. Emmeline Chandler of Appomattox.

Moores entertain

Mr. and Mrs. Neville P. Moore entertained Friday evening, June 18, with an after-rehearsal party at Trinity United Methodist Church social hall.

The event was in honor of their son, William Kevin Moore, whose marriage to Michelle Adaire Tweedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Tweedy of Concord, took place Saturday night, June 19.

Attending were members of the wedding party, friends and relatives of the couple.

PTA holds meeting

The executive committee of the Appomattox County Primary School PTA met Thursday night, June 17, at the school library to start making plans for the next year.

The purpose of this meeting was to inform the new officers of their duties and responsibilities and to get some ideas for PTA programs and money making projects for the new year. Some program ideas were Open House, Book Fair, Physical Education demonstration, an Art Show, along with some excellent speakers. Various other ideas were mentioned to make the programs really interesting and informative. Two money-making projects are the Halloween Carnival in October, and on October 9 starting at 7:00 a.m. a Pancake Breakfast for the participants of the Railroad Festival parade. This will be held at the primary school where the participants will be lining up for the parade.

Also at this meeting Mrs. Patricia Torrence brought us up to date on our Parent Volunteer Program headed by Mrs. Debbie Powell. The Parent Volunteer Program is the parents volunteering their time and services to the teachers and helping in any way possible to render better education for our children.

Also discussed at this meeting were ways of putting the money to use from money making projects that would benefit the children, "morning coffee" once every other month for the parents and ideas for American Education Week.

The Appomattox County Primary PTA is "on the go" and expecting a great year for everyone.

Inspection procedure

Police explain change

Virginia's changeover from a semiannual motor vehicle safety inspection program to an annual one is going to cost a little less and be much more convenient, but it's going to take some getting used to.

That, according to the Department of State Police, is how the changeover is going to affect the motoring public. The new law, passed by the 1982 General Assembly and signed by Governor Charles S. Robb, goes into effect July 1, 1982.

Instead of paying $4 per inspection for semiannual inspections, a total of $8 a year, vehicle owners will pay a $7 fee for an annual inspection. State Police are determined that the once-a-year inspections not serve as a detriment to highway safety and have promulgated the necessary inspection regulations to help ensure a vehicle's safe-operating condit i o n for the 12-month period between inspections. State Police also plan to increase its supervision of inspection stations and place greater emphasis on "spot" checking safety equipment of vehicles being operated on Virginia's highways.

The part of the new law that's "going to take some getting used to" is vehicle owners determining exactly when their vechicles are due to be inspected.

For the general motoring public, the way to determine when to have a vehicle inspected is:

You should have your vehicle inspected according to the date on your windshield sticker if:

(1) Your license plate decals expire during the last six months of 1982, or

(2) You purchase a new vehicle after July 1, 1981 and have a 12-month safety inspection sticker on your windshield.

Otherwise, wait, and have your safety inspection performed during the same month your plates expire (January-July 1983) regardless of the date shown on your windshield sticker.

For example, if your current inspection sticker expires in November, and your license plates expire in August, then you should have your vehicle inspected in November. If, however, your license plates don't expire until February, disregard your inspection sticker and wait until February to have your vehicle inspected.

In announcing the implementation of the annual safety inspection program, the Department of State Police indicated the importance of keeping vehicle safety inspections spread over a 12-month period and that this appeared to be the best way to do it.

State Police also note that fleet operators owning 20 or more vehicles and which are inspected in a private fleet inspection station can select the month or months for the reinspection of all vehicles in the fleet which bear a valid semiannual inspection sticker as of July 1.

Motor vehicles, trailers and semitrailers owned by a State agency or municipality and bearing permanent registration which are not routinely inspected in a private fleet station and which bear a semiannual inspection sticker as of July 1 must be inspected during the month in which the semiannual sticker expires.

"Under no conditions," said Colonel D. M. Slane, Department Superintendent, in reiterating Governor Robb's recent proclamation, "will a semiannual inspection sticker being displayed on a motor vehicle, trailer or semitrailer as of July 1, 1982, continue to be valid after June 30, 1983."

State Police indicate that a specific schedule according to vehicle registration and semiannual safety inspection sticker expiration dates has been designed for vehicle owners. The schedule will be displayed in all State Police offices, Division of Motor Vehicles' offices, inspection stations and in other prominent locations prior to July 1.

The Appomattox Elementary School library will be open this summer from the hours of 10:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m. on Tuesday, June 29, Tuesday, July 6, Tuesday, July 13, Tuesday, August 3, Tuesday, August 10, and Tuesday, August 17. Mrs. Margaret Glover, shown above, who works in the Appomattox Public Library will assist children in selecting appropriate books for summer reading.
